Ryota : Hello, Masako.

Masako : Hi, Ryota. Where did you go in August?

Ryota : I visited my sister in America. She studies science there. I was surprised because the library of her school was really new and different.

Masako : It sounds interesting. Please tell me more about the library.

Ryota : There are about seven hundred seats and two hundred computers. People can bring their own computers and use them there, too.

Masako : Great! I think many students need computers for their studies.

Ryota : Students can talk in some rooms and study together there. There is a big screen in each room, so they can look at information on the screen and talk about it together.

Masako : That's wonderful.

Ryota : The library is open twenty-four hours, but it is closed at night on Saturday and Sunday. Many students at her school study very hard and they study even at night. In the library, they can eat and drink at the desks, so they can stay in the building for long hours.

Masako : I hope we will have such a library in our town.

I am going to talk about my friend James. Five months ago, three baby dogs were born at my aunt's house, so two days later I visited her to see the dogs. When I got to my aunt's house, she was watching a mother dog and three baby dogs. I watched them with her. The baby dogs were small, and their mother was taking care of them. I said to my aunt, "I like that black and white dog. I like its eyes." She said, "I will give you the dog if you like." I was very happy to hear that. A month later, the dog came to my house. His name is James. When I get home, James always runs to me. He makes me happy even when I am tired or sad. He is one of my best friends.

問題 C 次の英文が2回読まれるのを聞いて、問題用紙の指示に従って答える。

I went to a small town in Okayama last Sunday. I left my house at eight o'clock and got to a park in the town at about ten. I saw beautiful trees and flowers in the park. Then I went to an old, famous temple. A temple is otera in Japanese. The temple was on the top of a small mountain, so I had to walk up many stone steps. Then I saw a wonderful scene. When I started to walk up the stone steps, I saw four people there. One was an old woman and three were young women. One of them put the old woman on her back. She walked up some stone steps with her and stopped. The second woman carried the old woman and walked up some stone steps, too. Then the third woman also did the same thing. After that they carried the old woman to the top of the stone steps. I walked up with them and when we arrived at the temple, we enjoyed talking. At that time, one of them said, "We sometimes bring her to this temple." I said, "I think it is hard for you to carry her on these stone steps. Why do you do this hard work?" Another woman answered, "Well, we are sisters and live near this temple. This old woman came to this temple every Sunday morning because she loves this temple very much. But now she is old and can't walk up these stone steps to the top without help. She was kind to us and did many things for us when we were small children. Now we thank her and want to make her happy."
